MINIMUM WAGE FOR FIREMEN KNOCKED OUT

State Supreme Court Holds Legislation Unconstitutional

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—The Illinois supreme court, reversing its December decision, knocked out as unconstitutional today legislation fixing minimum wages for downstate firemen.

Although the litigation involved only Springfield firemen—the city of Springfield bringing the test case—state house legal experts feared the decision invalidated a companion bill passed by the 1937 legislature fixing the same scale for downstate policemen.

The ruling was a sweeping victory for some 25 downstate communities who joined the city of Springfield as “friends of the court” in attacking the bills. Contending the legislation had plunged them into a financial quandary, they succeeded in getting a rehearing of the decision last April.

Originally, most of the cities, under leadership of the Illinois municipal league, supported the legislation. Governor Horner, however, although approving the minimum wage bills, vetoed a companion measure which would have allowed the cities to increase their tax rates, without referendum.

The high court held the indebtedness the legislature imposed upon the cities, without the consent of corporate officer or inhabitants of the municipalities, was a debt for a corporate purpose, and prohibited by the constitution.

State Not Involved

“Where a city is performing its delegated duties x x and the state itself is not involved, the legislature lacks authority to create a debt or impose a direct municipal tax for a corporate purpose,” the decision read.

“In the present case the record fails to disclose that prevailing rates of compensation to firemen are inadequate to properly man the fire department of any city to which the firemen’s minimum wage act applies.”

One of the objects of the constitutional provision in question, the court held, was to prevent financial destruction of municipalities by “unrestrained imposition of taxes.”

The court’s ruling today apparently kills the firemen’s minimum wage bill. The firemen won the first victory when the Sangamon county circuit court issued a mandamus order directing the city to pay the salaries. The city appealed but the supreme court sustained the decision last December. The high court took the case again on a rehearing petition filed by the city, automatically deferring application of the legislation to the cities.

Council for the firemen had averred the law was valid under the state’s right to exercise police power.

The act provided a minimum of $150 monthly in cities between 10,000 and 25,000 population and $175 between 25,000 and 150,000.

Although many cities have postponed making their budget estimates for the coming fiscal year, pending a final decision by the court, only a few submitted a higher tax rate proposal to the voters at the April primary.

NEW SIT-DOWN STRIKE BEGUN BY JOBLESS

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—As prolonged efforts were made today to reach a legislative compromise on relief, unemployed demonstrators announced from the House galleries the start of another sit-down strike.

Spokesmen for Mayor Kells and Governor Horner reported they were near an agreement under which relief financing and drivers’ licensing bills could be passed by the special session.

As the House recessed until 4 P. M., Majority Leader Benjamin S. Adamowski announced that Speaker Lewis had called a compromise conference and that new bills, possibly including a state-wide tobacco tax might be started through the lower chamber late today.

From the east gallery of the House a woman demonstrator rose to speak for five minutes.

“Thousands are starving and yet you adjourn day after day and don’t do anything about it,” she screamed.

Three other members of the Illinois Workers alliance, who have watched all sessions since a five-hour sit-down strike a week ago, followed her with announcement that they would not leave the chamber until action is taken.

POLICE PUZZLED OVER LETTER ON AMNESIA VICTIM

Chicago, June 22.—(AP)—A woman amnesia victim, about 26 years old, was brought to a police station in the loop last night and officers were puzzled over a strange letter in her purse which indicated she had only a few months to live.

It was addressed to Miss Mary Powell, of 321 South Oak street, Waukegan, Ill., and read in part: “This is the hardest thing I ever had to tell a human being. You asked about your physical condition and I must tell you that you have a year or two of life—say about 16 months at the most; three months at the least. I should say that if you could find happiness any way, I’d take it at any cost.”

The missive bore the name of a Champaign, Ill. physician. He denied, however, in a telephone conversation with detectives, that he had ever written such a letter.

The police learned definitely that the woman was Miss Powell, a former Waukegan school teacher, and that she registered at a hotel on June 6. H. R. Lawrence, a hotel clerk, said she came to Chicago in search of a job.

Police definitely identified the woman as Miss Powell through the aid of her brother Thomas L. Powell, a University of Illinois student, who returned with her to their home in Waukegan.

Powell said his sister was principal of the north side school in Waukegan. He told police she had suffered several similar lapses in memory following an operation a year ago.

Zoning Committee Has Completed Its Survey

The special committee appointed by Mayor William Slothower and the members of the city council, to draft plans for a zoning ordinance for Dixon have completed their preliminary survey of the city and filed their recommendations with City Attorney Gerald Jones. The committee was composed of A. A. Rowland, chairman, W. H. Coppins, Ray Arnold, Robert Reed and Erman O. Miller.

The committee deliberated for some time in canvassing the plat of the city and recommending the establishment of a zoning system. With the filing of their initial recommendation the committee now awaits the drafting of a proposed measure, which may necessitate some changes, after which public hearings will be held before the ordinance is considered by the city commission.

Forest Fires In Alberta Worst In Province History

Edmonton, Alta., June 22.—(AP)—Forest fires, termed the worst in Alberta’s history, swept across a 250-mile front today in western Canada’s brush country.

The flames spread rapidly in the wake of a hot, rainless spell, causing heavy timber losses. Fires threatened saw mills and farm homes and at least one community, Caroline with a population of 50.

The fire raged over an area extending from the British Columbia border to Rochester, 50 miles north of Edmonton.

Note in Clue

Kenosha, Wis., June 22.—(AP)—Detectives think maybe they have a clue at last to the thief who has been filching milk bottles of milk from homes in a certain residential area. A milk wagon driver reported he found an empty bottle, a note in a childish scrawl requesting chocolate milk. “We like that better,” the note read.

English Youth’s Letter to Mayor Requests Letters From Dixonites

Mayor William Slothower this morning received an unusual communication from Lancashire, Eng., with a request that the letter be published. The communication is as follows:

The Mayor of Dixon.
Dear Sir:
I dare say that you will be quite surprised to get a letter from such a place as “Barrow-in-Furness.” In all probability you have never heard of the place before today, but of course that is not going to stop me from writing to you asking you to do me a favor if you would be so kind.

Lately I have been feeling rather lonely so I decided to interest myself in other people’s hobbies and pastimes, and three days ago I came across the name of your town in an atlas of the world. I believe it is the only of its name in the world.

You see as it happens my own name is Albert George Dixon, so I immediately decided to write to you and ask you to do me a great favour. I happen to be a very keen writer and I would be very pleased if you would insert this short note in your local paper. My hobbies are rugby football, cricket, swimming, bowls, reading and cycling and most important making new friends that is why I’m writing.

My age is 23 height, 5 ft. 11 ins. weight, 10½ stone, and looks that are passable in any crowd. If there is anybody in your town who would like to make a new friend, my full address is: Mr. Albert G. Dixon, 43, Roose Road, Barrow-in-Furness, Lancashire, England. Thanking you in anticipation of your kind co-operation in this matter for me. I remain, Yours sincerely, Mr. A. G. Dixon.

LONE SKY RAIDER SINKS 2 ENGLISH BOATS OFF SPAIN

Called “Deliberate and Premeditated Attack” On Freighter

Valencia, Spain, June 22.—(AP)—Two British ships were sunk just outside Valencia harbor today by a lone sky raider in a continuation of the long series of warplane attacks on foreign shipping in ports of government Spain.

The 3,054-ton Sunion, British ship formerly of Greek registry, struck by incendiary and explosive bombs, burned furiously for six hours and then settled to the bottom.

Previously the 4,789-ton freighter Thorpeness, shattered by an aerial torpedo, had gone down with 7,000 tons of grain.

All the Sunion’s crew of 32, including a German observer for the nonintervention committee, were taken off safely.

Planes from the Sunion’s burning cargo lighted the whole roads. After torpedoing the Thorpeness, the plane returned and machine-gunned her, splintering the captain’s cabin.

Today’s attacks brought to 54 the total of airplane attacks on British ships since the Spanish war started—nearly half in the last three months.

One Chinaman Lost

All the crew was saved except one Chinese.

The Thorpeness was pierced amidships and sank within five minutes in sixty feet of water.

Chief Officer Norman Goster of Southampton, a son-in-law of Alexander Baillie, Seattle, managed to get away in one boat with 25 members of the crew. The Captain, William Kernode and eight others jumped into the sea.

It was the second attack on the Thorpeness during the Spanish civil war. She was bombed January 20 in Taragona harbor and four members of her crew killed.

The attack by the lone raider was similar to others in the recent series of attacks on British ships.

The captain declared it was a “deliberate and premeditated attack to sink a British ship anchored at sea.”

The ship arrived Monday from Marseille and anchored outside the harbor expecting to enter today and discharge her cargo.

Warmer Weather Needed For Corn Growth In State

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—The weather bureau’s weekly crop bulletin for Illinois said today warmer conditions are needed for corn development. Corn is mostly in average condition, it said.

“Winter wheat developed rapidly,” the report for the week ending yesterday continued. “Harvesting was advanced in some lower central counties and proceeding actively in some lower central areas, though delayed to some extent by rains.”

“Conditions are generally average to excellent. Further reports of rust damage indicate that it has not yet been widespread and has been retarded somewhat by the present dry weather.”

Queen Elizabeth’s Mother Very Ill

London, June 22.—(AP)—The serious illness of Queen Elizabeth’s 76-year-old mother, the Countess of Strathmore, today caused another daughter to make a flying trip to her London bedside.

Lady Rose Leveson Gower, the second daughter of the countess, flew from the Isle of Man. The queen, in residence in Buckingham Palace, already was in London.

$3,750,000,000

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—This is how congress split up the $3,750,000,000 in the spending-lending bill approved by President Roosevelt:

$1,425,000,000 for works relief jobs for 3,000,000 persons until March 1, 1939.

$965,000,000 for public works projects under PWA, expected to provide a year’s work for 1,000,000 persons.

$300,000,000 for slum-clearance, low-cost housing program.

$212,000,000 for farm “parity” payments.

$100,700,000 for the rural electrification program.

$75,000,000 for the National Youth Administration to aid 600,000 persons of school ages.

$25,000,000 to start a three-year federal public building program that eventually will cost $130,000,000.

$6,000,000 for the Puerto Rican reconstruction administration.

$30,000,000 for administrative costs and numerous administration agencies.

SECRET INQUIRY INTO POLITICS

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—An intention to make secret inquiries into any complaints of “politics in relief” was disclosed today by Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate campaign expenditures committee.

“We can’t accomplish much,” he said, “unless we make our investigations before the parties we are investigating learn that an inquiry is under way.”

For that reason, he added, the committee probably will not make known its list of agents. The Senate group will meet Friday to define formally its proposed policy of holding “undercover” inquiries before complaints are aired at hearings.

“Only ‘three or four’ complaints thus far have been filed with the committee, which was given extra funds to investigate alleged use of public money for political purposes.

Sheppard said these complaints, as yet unopened, would be turned to the committee at its Friday meeting.

Sheppard said the committee would use its power, whenever necessary, to seize records and accounts by subpoena. Improper use of state as well as federal funds will be investigated.

North Chicago Firm Accused By NLRB Examiner Today

Chicago, June 22.—(AP)—A NLRB trial examiner held in his intermediate report today that the Automotive Maintenance Machinery Company of North Chicago, Ill., violated the Wagner act by fostering a company union and by discharging three employees, because they were members of a C. I. O. union.

The examiner, Henry J. Kent, found in favor of the company on two other counts—that the company had not discharged two other employees for union affiliation and had not refused to bargain collectively with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America, the C. I. O. unit.

The company was ordered to reinstate L. J. Warner, Sr., L. J. Warner, Jr., and Frank Jordan with back pay, and to disestablish the Amco Workers Association, the union the examiner accused the company of dominating the supporting. The Warners and Jordan were the workers Kent said were discharged or union membership.

Engineers Ponder Considering Bids For Flood Levee

Chicago, June 22.—(AP)—United States board of army engineers officials said today a decision would be made Friday on whether to call for new bids for construction of a drainage district flood control levee at Hennepin, Ill.

Bids announced yesterday by the board disclosed the R. J. Hastings Co., of St. Louis was low bidder with a total contract price of $74,151.60 or a unit price of 24.4 cents.

Board officials said this figure compared with the army engineers’ estimate of $38,595.30 or a unit price of 12.7 cents for the project.

Other bids received were from the Sternberg Dredging Co., of St. Louis, for $87,948.66 and the L. E. Tillman Co., of Bernie, Mo., for $90,805.22.

A board officer said the work would consist of levee reconstruction, repairing and enlarging. He estimated the project would require a year for completion.

Report Barbara Hutton Receives Threats to Son And In Marital Trouble

Court Order Gives Rise To Rumors Concerning Heiress

London, June 22.—(AP)—A British court’s action in granting Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow’s request for a legal order presumably safeguarding her two-year-old son Lance tonight gave rise to rumors of a rift with her Danish nobleman husband.

The nature of the court order was not revealed, and the rumors were based on the fact that the count had been absent from London since his precipitate departure two weeks ago.

He was reported to be somewhere on the Continent, but friends said they did not know his exact whereabouts.

Attorneys for the countess said a statement could not be made at present because of “legal reasons.”

Accompanied by Sir Patrick Hastings, one of Britain’s best known attorneys, the countess visited the Bow street court to make her application.

The court order was granted in a private sitting with the magistrate, after reports had circulated the countess had received a letter she considered threatening to the safety of her baby.

Silent guards watched the state-lit mansion of the Haugwitz-Reventlows from behind locked gates.

Appears Nervous

The countess’ trip to court was her first official action since the reports started circulating. She appeared nervous as she arrived.

Dressed in blue and wearing a heavy veil, she smoked cigarette after cigarette as she waited in the dark corridor before gaining a private audience with the magistrate.

Friends who accompanied the countess to court said “the less said at this stage the better.” Her solicitors said a statement now was “impossible because of legal reasons.”

The countess merely said she had taken “certain precautions” to guard the child, two-year-old Count Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow, London’s wealthiest baby, against a reported threat.

She was understood to have remained up until 2 A. M. today.

Her attorney said it was impossible to make a statement at the moment “for legal reasons.”

Await “Suspected Person”

Scotland Yard was said to have posted guards at all ports and airfields to watch for the arrival from abroad of a “suspected person.” Officials were said to have photographs and a full description.

The main gates of the Woolworth heiress’ new home were locked. Several plainclothesmen patrolled the grounds and tradesmen were admitted only if they could show credentials.

Despite the precautions, however, a nurse wheeled the winsome, sandy-haired baby around the grounds in his big black carriage during the morning.

Scotland Yard authorities said they have provided no special guards or other protection and disclaimed knowledge of a kidnapping threat. An official said he had no “confirmation” that police had been mobilized but he did not directly deny the report.

37 KNOWN DEAD IN RAIL WRECK; SEARCH ENDING

Miles City, Mont., June 22.—(AP)—Officials counted 37 known dead today as the search for victims in the crash of the Milwaukee road’s “Olympian” neared an end at Custer Creek.

Finally gaining access to sleeper B, after several rebuffs in attempting to enter the submerged car, workers last night took 3 bodies from the silt-laden car.

Three more victims’ bodies were pulled from the Yellowstone river yesterday, many miles from the crash scene. Officials expected to find more.

So far 31 bodies have been borne from the wreckage, five more have been found washed far from the scene and one woman victim died in a Miles City hospital.

The trim “Olympian,” ace Chicago to Tacoma, Wash., train, crashed shallowly into the creek, normally shallow, early Sunday when a “flash flood” loosened a 150-foot trestle 26 miles east of Miles City.

A coroner’s jury last night blamed no one for the crash, but attributed the derailment to the “flood waters in Custer Creek.”

The body of P. F. Schultz, 63, of Ladd, Ill., a passenger, was recovered yesterday.

Schultz’s body was found floating in the Yellowstone river at Sidney, Mont., more than 130 miles downstream from Custer Creek in which the train plunged through a flood-battered bridge early Sunday.

It was identified by railroad officials. Schultz was a Milwaukee road engineer riding as a passenger on the train.

Vicars Bills To Restore Cuts In Salary In Senate

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—The House sent to the Senate today, 82 to 23, the vicars bill to restore the 1933 ten per cent salary cut to downstate county and probate judges.

“This is an outrage,” said Rep. Joseph Sam Perry, Wheaton Democrat. “In large counties like mine, we have both county and probate judges and neither sits more than two days a week. They ought to get a cut.”

Probate and county judges get from $1,620 to $5,400 in downstate counties, depending upon population. The salary cuts for Circuit judges and state’s attorneys were restored last year.

PWA ALLOTTED 41 MILLIONS FIRST DAY UNDER LAW

President Signed Huge “Pump Priming” Bill Late Yesterday

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—The Public Works Administration began its 1938 spending-lending program today with allotments of $41,632,717 in grants and $9,021,000 of loans for 291 projects.

Howard A. Gray, assistant administrator, said the 191 projects would involve $92,520,374 of construction. The grants were for 45 per cent of the cost and the loans for 55 per cent. The difference between the total of loans and grants and total of construction cost, Gray said, would be made up by the applicants.

Six grants fell in the million dollar class but the vast majority were from a few thousand to as much as a half million.

They had been approved by President Roosevelt even before he signed the $3,750,000,000 spending-lending bill late yesterday at Hyde Park, N. Y. His pen strokes were the signal for WPA and all federal spending agencies to swing into action with their programs, details of which have been ready for weeks.

Bulk Non-Federal Work

PWA construction work will be allocated daily until 2,000 projects will have been made public Friday night. The bulk is expected to be non-federal projects or which the government will advance grants for 45 per cent of the cost and the applicants will put up the other 55 per cent.

The first group of 2,000 projects will cost about $600,000,000. After this week, PWA allotments will be announced as applicants qualify for their share of the agency’s $685,000,000 fund.

Public works officials said this week’s projects were being taken from nearly 3,000 applications held over the old PWA program of the last five years. They had been approved but could not go forward because of lack of funds.

New applications were expected to bring the total to about 4,000 or enough to produce $2,000,000,000 of construction by June 30 1940.

Work Relief Rolls

The Work Progress Administration, which received $1,425,000,000 in the spending-lending bill, also prepared to put new funds into operation, but on a more limited scale.

Work relief rolls, which have been increasing at the rate of about 30,000 persons a week, are near the 2,800,000 average which Administrator Harry Hopkins said he expected to carry with a possible maximum of 3,000,000.

The new funds are supposed to last until next March 1.

“This money,” WPA official said, “is to be looked upon as additional funds to keep us going in our present stride and we intend to carry on without fuss or feathers.”

The $25,000,000 inserted in the WPA appropriation for direct relief, they said, will be subject to presidential order and probably will be held for emergencies.

No Aid to Cities

None believed it would be used at once for the relief of cities such as Chicago and Cleveland which have exhausted local relief funds and failed to get additional appropriations from the state legislatures.

The National Youth Administration, an offshoot of WPA, received $75,000,000 to operate until June 30, 1939. It helps students through school with part-time projects and sets up special projects for those of school age who are unable to attend regular classes.

The Farm Security Administration, which sprang up when Rexford G. Tugwell’s resettlement administration died, was given $175,000,000 to rehabilitate financially distressed farmers.

About $25,000,000 of the rural relief appropriation will be used for an educational program designed to make better farmers and homemakers of destitute farmers and their wives.

This will be coupled with the disbursement of $120,000,000 in rehabilitation loans and $30,000,000 in direct relief grants to between 750,000 and 1,000,000 families.

The loans and grants will be made only on the basis of farm and home management plans worked out by FSA supervisors.

PAW PAW DEFEATED OHIO

The Paw Paw ball team has now won two league games this season, having defeated Ohio on Sunday by the score of 10 to 9, winning the game in the last half of the ninth. The contest was played at Gibb's grove.

A hit batsman, a bunt hit by Van Horn, a walk and an error gave Paw Paw the run necessary to win in the last half of the ninth inning. Paw Paw had gone into the ninth inning, leading 9 to 5, but Ohio put on a four run rally in their half of the ninth, which tied up the ball game.

The Paw Paw team secured 15 hits in the contest. Van Horn was the author of four of them, and Hof made three hits, which included two doubles and a single.

Paw Paw registered five times in the second inning, six hits contributing to that scoring spree. Paw Paw registered another in the sixth, three in the eighth, and then the winning run in the ninth.

Challand was quite effective for Paw Paw until the ninth, but then his control got the best of him, and he was in hot water plenty during that frame. However, he wiggled out of the inning with only four men scoring. Three runners were left stranded on the bases.

Paw Paw fans had a chance to see two new faces, Arthur Wells as a third base coach, and George Kelly, who performed most of the game at short stop. Next Sunday, Paw Paw plays West Brooklyn at Gibb's Grove.

Letter From Camper Expresses Enjoyment

From letters arriving from the Girl Scouts enjoying a stay at Camp John Ralston, there can be little doubt that every minute is crowded with interesting activities. The following is a letter from one who signs herself "Ye Camper":

Dear Folks: Yesterday's letter was sadly way-laid en route but we assure you the first day in camp was "perfection"—even though the lodge was deserted the same evening. No, not a strike on "cookie," but both units took their down dinners and cooked "squaw corn" outside.

Every girl seems to have finished her wash stand, and tent arrangements are most original, as you will see when you visit us Thursday night (we hope). Better come then, for that's the only time you can see us here.

Four o'clock risers on Monday had the tables turned today—the sleepy heads had to be dragged out in various instances. One might think they were tired, except that two minutes later they were all live wires. Buns have gone through on old songs. Even the oldest favorites are being let up on in favor of new ones that we are all learning fast.

No time for more now, folks, so watch for more of the latest news tomorrow—must run and finish the lanyards and leather belts we've started.

YE CAMPER.

Sometimes eyesight dims so gradually that only a competent eye authority can tell what is happening. Just as you recognize the necessity for visiting your dentist at regular periods, so it is wise to have your eyes examined regularly. Here you can be sure of a conscientious examination, and an honest opinion as to whether or not you should wear glasses or have your lenses changed.

DEMOCRACY IS MORE THAN MAJORITY RULE

If there is one thing that marks democracy off from other systems of government, it is this: In democracy, minorities are assured that certain rights common to all may not be taken away from them, even by a majority.

Thus democracy is greater than mere "majority rule." It means that all individual men have certain rights which can not be taken from them whether they happen to agree or not with the majority at any given time and place. It means that all the force of the public power shall be used to see that they get those rights, even at times and under circumstances when at a given time and place a local majority may oppose it.

It is because this principle lies close to the core and heart of democracy, that the row now going on in Newark and Jersey City over Mayor Frank Hague is more important than a mere local affair. It is important that people understand the principles involved.

Hague's defense in the failure to protect Norman Thomas from a mob which egged him was simply that people were against Thomas and the police could not prevent his being attacked—that they did well to get him out with his life.

That is scarcely enough to satisfy anyone with any faith in democracy. People who didn't care for Thomas' principles, and didn't wish to hear him speak could very well stay away. To allow them to assemble and violently assault a man exercising a commonly recognized right to make a speech, is something else again.

Note how closely other rights are tied in with this simple principle of guaranteeing to individuals their rights even though they may be in a minority. Mayor Hague is a Catholic—a religion whose followers are a minority in the United States. Would Hague agree that in a community where there were few Catholics, it would be all right for a local majority to stone worshippers from the church door, with police displaying no interest more than to get them out of town alive. Probably he wouldn't. He would say "that's different."

But that is just what has happened repeatedly in Mexico. In small towns where anti-church feeling was strong, such people would gather and assault church-goers. Public authority, noting that the anti-church faction appeared to be in a majority, would stand aside.

You might argue that that is majority rule, but it is not democracy. For democracy assumes that men have certain rights as men and as citizens which even a majority can not and must not take away.

CURIOUS BOOM

Sales of the Bible have been phenomenal in one part of the globe this year.

A report from the British and Foreign Bible Society singles out the situation for special mention. It seems that there has never been such a demand during a comparable period.

"In the first quarter of our current fiscal year," a spokesman states, "we sold 2040 Bibles. . . . The total of Bibles, Gospels and separate books of the Scriptures we sold in this period was approximately 9200."

The spokesman goes on to state that the sales figures would have been much larger if the salesmen hadn't encountered certain difficulties in getting about. Difficulties like bombed railroad stations and shelled bridges.

The sales report refers to Spain, where men are busy blasting one another off the face of the earth.

CELLULOID AND COAL

Sometimes a man chooses a career, but much more frequently the career chooses the man. And the chances are that the latter procedure produces no more square-peg-round-hole combinations than the former.

A story comes of a man who spent his youth training for a legal profession. He made a success of the practice of law, and kept on being a success for 35 years. He then lost every penny he had in speculation. He walked into a moving picture casting director's office one day and was mistaken for another man of the same name who was already in the business.

That was the beginning of a movie career, at the age of 57. He is now having the time of his life as an actor, makes money at it, and recalls his years at the bar with acute distaste.

Another story concerns a 19-year-old girl named Rose Chickiris. There's not a great deal to say about Rose except that she sells coal, makes a good living at it, knows all about coal, and is on her way to establishing her own coal company. It seems she just happened to get a job in a coal office one day.

Fifty-seven-year-old men don't think of becoming moving picture actors, and 19-year-old girls don't go around dreaming dreams of selling coal.

It makes you suspect that most people probably have a lot more careers in them than they could discover in a lifetime, and your chances of being picked by the right career are at least as good as the chances of doing the right picking yourself.

Washington—Members of the House liberal bloc made a very amazing—and painful—discovery in the closing days of the recent session. They learned that their 100 per cent pro-labor voting records weren't worth a hoot for election support from the A. F. of L. high command. If they had evinced any friendliness toward the C. I. O.

Extension of AFL vengeance toward its labor rival to the political arena was made known to the House liberals by none other than President Bill Green himself. His extraordinary statements are of far-reaching significance.

Early this month, House liberals who face tough election fights wrote letters to Green, asking for his endorsement on the basis of their unblemished labor records. Several weeks passed and they heard nothing. Mystified by this silence, Representative Maury Maverick, leader of the bloc and a friend of Green's, asked for an explanation.

"As friends of labor who have braved the hatred of those opposed to organized labor," Maverick said, "we can't understand why you did not reply to these letters."

"There are other things involved in this matter," remarked Green, "besides a Congressman's voting record. There is his attitude toward our enemies within the ranks of labor."

"Do you mean," asked Maverick, "that the A. F. of L. would withhold endorsement from a Congressman with a 100 per cent labor record if he was friendly to some other labor organization?"

"But John L. Lewis," solemnly intoned Green, "left the House of his fathers. We invited him back but he wouldn't come."

Principles or Personalities? "Just a minute, Mr. Green," said Maverick, much perplexed. "Let's get this straight. Suppose a man had a perfect labor record and was being opposed by an anti-labor candidate, what would you do?"

"Mr. Maverick," retorted Green, "we will support no one who gives aid and comfort to the C. I. O. We will give no help to any man who is friendly to them even if he has a perfect labor voting record. We will not support any Congressman or Senator, no matter how liberal he may be, if he is friendly to our enemies."

"Well, what is this," asked Maverick, "a question of labor and principle or of personalities?"

"They left us and we invited them back," repeated Green, "but they turned their back on the house of their fathers."

"Frankly, Mr. Green," said Maverick, "this stuns me. Take my case. I am friendly to all labor organizations. I protected the civil liberties of A. F. of L. workers in my home town when the Federation-endorsed district attorney failed to do so. I have repeatedly gone to the aid of the school teachers' union there."

"Oh," interrupted Green, "we aren't interested in the teachers. They are half CIO anyway."

"Well, all I have to say is this," concluded Maverick. "I am not for the A. F. of L., the C. I. O., the Railroad Brotherhoods, or any other particular labor organization. The label means little to me. I am for the worker regardless of what button he wears. Regardless of what it may be with you or any other leader, it is a matter of principle with me and not personalities."

That ended the conversation.

WINNING MARYLAND

Senator Bob Reynolds, who won a hands-down renomination victory in North Carolina a few weeks ago, took time out in the closing rush of Congress to give some campaign advice to his much worried colleague Senator Millard ("Millard") Tydings of Maryland, who faces a desperate re-election contest.

"Millard," said the ebullient Reynolds, "don't talk issues. No, sir, don't waste any time on that. That's risky business. Your opponent might get the better of you in that kind of argument. What you want to do is talk about the alien within our gates. That's the stuff that gets votes."

"Tell 'em about the 7,000,000 aliens in the country who are keeping good, red-blooded patriots Americans out of jobs and costing the taxpayers millions for relief. The alien within our gates, that's the thing to feed 'em. Take my advice, Millard. I know. It worked like a charm for me."

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc.
Author of "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND"

The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea. (Kagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1—

1. No, what happened was that Dot sowed two kinds of Pure Whites, each of which carried the "genes" of other colors in a recessive way. Each of these breeds true white as long as it is kept separate, but the moment the two are crossed, seven different colors (including white) show up in the offspring! No example shows more clearly the nature of recessive qualities or genes (jeans). They do not show in the offspring unless both parents show them or carry them in their germ-cells. Thus every person carries within himself a host of qualities which he does not show but which will show as sure as fate in a portion of his children if he marries a mate carrying the same recessive genes.

Answer to Question No. 2—

2. There is a lot of truth in this. Beyond question the most important thing in a man's life is the woman he marries—whether the marriage be successful or a failure. In spite of anything he can do, his life largely revolves around her, his home and their children—if they have any. If he loves her, he spends his life trying to make her happy and if he does not love her or dislikes her, he spends his life trying to find means of escape. It is the rare husband who gets by with mere indifference.

Answer to Question No. 3—

3. No. Dr. A. R. Laquer, psychologist, after working on tests for auto-drivers, says in the Scientific Monthly: "Safe driving" and what any people call 'good driving' are not the same. Many safe drivers are not good drivers; that is, skillful in the sense of mechanical and general alertness. The racing driver is usually a 'good driver' but we would hardly call him a 'safe driver' on the race track. (Copyright 1938, John F. Dille Co.)

LEGION PLANS CONVENTION IN ROCKFORD SOON

Rochelle, June 22.—Rochelle Unit 403, American Legion Auxiliary, held its annual election of officers at their regular meeting held in the American Legion hall, Monday evening. Guest; Secretary, Mrs. Theodore Schumaker; Treasurer, Mrs. Fred Rush; Sergeant at Arms, Mrs. Mary Olson; Historian, Mrs. Floyd Caspers.

because it lies just south of Czechoslovakia. Thus Germany, Poland and Hungary, working together, could use the squeeze play on the Czechs. Since Hungary already was pro-Fascist-Nazi, reports are that Hitler had no trouble bringing it into line.

Roumania, however, was more difficult. King Carol still retains some friendship for France, plus respect for Britain, and he demurred at granting all of Hitler's demands. These included (1) access to Roumanian wheat and oil, which was not particularly objectionable; and (2) use of Roumanian's three chief Black Sea ports.

Hitler wanted German destroyers to be able to use these in any attack against the Ukraine. In a war against Russia the ports would be of tremendous value. But King Carol was not so keen about it.

However, gaudy Prime Minister Chamberlain made a speech in the House of Commons announcing Britain would not defend her ships when bombed by German-Italian planes near Spain. This was the most significant retreat for the Union Jack since the days when Lord Nelson made it the ruler of the seven seas. It was interpreted throughout Europe as a sign of British weakness.

Since then King Carol is reported ready to lease Roumanian ports to the Nazis.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

North Dakota's Senator Lynn Frazier and Representative Bill Lemke own large tracts of land in Mexico which they purchased many years ago at 20 cents an acre. Lemke, who was Father Coughlin's presidential white hope in 1936, says he is willing to sell his holdings to the Mexican government at the original price—provided they pay him in cash. . . . Mrs. Woodridge Ferris, wife of the late Democratic Senator from Michigan, is considering running for a seat in the House. . . . Elmore Croyle, lately Clerk of the Supreme Court, started as a page in the court. He is not a lawyer but knows more law than many of the attorneys who appear before the court.

Instructions in life saving and swimming will be offered at Spring Lake this summer. Classes will open in a few days, and persons interested in taking one or both of the courses should sign up for them as soon as possible. The instructions are to be given without charge and will be arranged for the public convenience.

Various types of entertainment are planned for the public this summer.

To Start Work Soon On 7 Locomotives

Work will be started about July 1st on an order for seven Diesel electric locomotives for the Texas-Mexican Railroad Co., by the Whitecomb Locomotive Co., according to Edward P. Hackel, general

Six locomotives built by the Whitecomb Locomotive Company of Rochelle, was a part of the cargo of the Vest-Vaughan when it left New Orleans, June 7, for South America. The locomotive were constructed for the Surinaamsche Bauxite Maatschappij, Moeng, Dutch Guiana, for use in their bauxite mines. Leslie Bain, superintendent of the erection floor, accompanied the shipment and will install the machines.

BIBLE SCHOOL

The community daily vacation Bible school demonstration will be held Sunday evening in the Mills and Petrie Memorial building and was well attended by the parents, relatives and friends of the children who participated in the program.

Miss Florence Schaffer had charge of the kindergarten department and was assisted by Mrs. P. O. Bailey, Mrs. F. Louis Grafton and Miss Gail Bailey. The tiny folks in this group sang several songs which they had learned, gave their memory work, and dramatized one of their Bible stories.

The intermediate department with Mrs. Richard Sunday in charge demonstrated their work with songs, memory work, dramatization and catechism.

Mrs. Arthur Griffith, as head of the junior department, contributed a part toward the program also. This department sang several hymns, answered Bible questions and gave the catechism which they had memorized. Eleven boys and girls of the junior department were presented diplomas, the presentation being made by Rev. F. Louis Grafton. LAURENT GEHANT DIES

Laurent Gehant, 77, member of the West Brooklyn village board for the past ten years, died Sunday at 8:30 A. M. at his home here. He had been ill for the past several months.

The retired farmer was born in Shelby county, July 3, 1860 and moved to this vicinity with his parents when he was a child. Mr. Gehant married Mary Henry, January 17, 1883. They recently celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

LOUIS STILL FAVORITE ON EVE OF BOUT

Crowd of 80,000 To Pack Yankee Stadium Tonight

BULLETIN

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Overcast skies and muggy weather threatened rain today as Joe Louis and Max Schmeling settled down to wait for their 15-round heavyweight championship match in the Yankee Stadium tonight.

There was no rain but weather forecasts were not particularly encouraging. "Occasional showers and not much change in temperature" was the latest prediction.

There was no hint of any postponement however at the offices of Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Club. Even should rain fall, Jacobs would wait until late afternoon before postponing the bout until tomorrow night.

New York, June 22.—(AP)—The fight that has overshadowed all else in the fist world for two years comes true at 8 o'clock, Central Standard time, tonight, when Joe Louis, the 24-year-old Alabama Negro, defends his heavyweight championship against Max Schmeling, the 32-year-old German ex-champion, at the Yankee Stadium.

A crowd of 80,000 is expected to pack into the famous baseball arena when the two gladiators shuffle out to meet each other under the bright, hot lights. The throng will have paid close to $1,000,000 to watch the pair belabor each other for 15 rounds, or less in the event of a knockout.

Two sons of the president, a cabinet minister, and celebrities of every stripe will be there to watch the bland German try to repeat the knockout he scored over Louis two years ago in the same arena, and to witness the efforts of the young champion to remove that one blot from his escutcheon.

Louis remains the 1 to 2 favorite in one of the biggest betting fights in recent years, and is the choice of a majority of several hundred experts. The so-called "fight mob" regards Louis a virtual cinch, and promoter Mike Jacobs is hoping fervently that the title remains in this country.

Little Affection
The two big men, who have no affection for each other, were meeting at Madison Square Garden at 11 A. M., C. S. T., to weigh in and have their respective pulses clocked by the commission medicine man, Dr. William Walker.

It was reported that speculators were getting as much as $100 for choice ringside chairs, originally priced at $50. On the other hand, certain of the speculative gentry who stocked up on "ringsides" back past the 30th row were said to be unloading at a loss. At any rate, there is no prospect of a sell-out.

Schmeling won one small victory before they entered the ring. The boxing commission recognized his demand that Louis not be permitted to wear the Chicago, or "big-thumb" glove that the champion has favored in his recent fights. Both will have their hamlike hands encased in six-ounce everlast mitts, buttressed by plenty of bandage and tape.

For the first time in this country, little Joe Jacobs will not be in the German's corner, the commission having refused to restore Joe's license as a second. Some of Schmeling's followers regard this as a bad sign, but it doesn't worry Max. Nothing, in fact, bothers Max except the fact that he has to pay both U. S. and German income tax on his purse, which will be 20 per cent of the net. Louis will receive the champion's customary 40 per cent.

The probability is that Arthur Donovan again will be the referee, though the choice, like that of the two judges, will not be known until the fighters are in the ring.

And it might be a great fight. It should be. There is every element that goes to make a furious, dramatic encounter, including an intense desire for revenge on the part of Louis.

Depends On Louis
The sort of battle it will be depends almost entirely upon Louis. He has been growing for several weeks that he will spring from his stool and sink Schmeling under a fusillade of blows. If he tries to do that, the explosion should be heard in Green Point, and the ring will be filled with large, falling bodies.

Schmeling, with his right that shocks like an elephant gun, wants nothing better, he figures he is

On Top Again

George Covert again took command of Dixon's tennis battalion Tuesday regaining No. 1 position in the defense of his 1937 city singles tennis title. Covert entered the 1938 struggle later than other ladder competitors but has worked his way to the top by first beating Fred Hovey, then William Rusk, Clifford Flanagan and R. A. Joslyn who held the top for a brief period. Covert as No. 1, will meet all challengers until the playoff tournament the week-end of September 4 and 5.

certain to down any fighter who comes to him throwing punches. If Louis charges full-bent, the result probably will be known in the first minute. If he takes Max's right, shakes it off and continues to unleash his terrible hooks, then the German's big career has closed after 14 years.

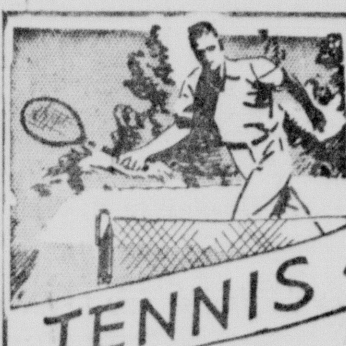

Despite Joe's fiery talk of late, though, there is widespread doubt that he will continue so hot-headed in the cool of this evening. It simply is not his style, no matter to what extent they have pumped him up during his training.

Louis, like Schmeling, essentially is a counter fighter, and there is a strong possibility that he will entrench himself tonight behind his blinding left jab and try to cut Schmeling to pieces. After all, the little young Negro has the better all-around equipment, including a paralyzing punch with either hand, so it would appear that he can afford to wait. Also, he has the championship, and is certain to keep it if the issue is close at the end of 15 rounds.

Schmeling's supporters are confident that Louis, who fights mostly by instinct anyway, will try to out-box Max. Schmeling thinks that, too. In that case, it might develop into not particularly exciting bout.

The leaves of a species of goldenrod have been used as a substitute for tea.

There are approximately 3,000,000 lepers in the world.

WORLD SERIES MIGHT BE ALL-OHIO AFFAIR

Indians, Reds Keep Plaguing Loop Leaders

BY BILL BONI

Associated Press Sports Writer
Instead of the "subway series" that seemed so likely when the big league firing started in April, this fall's big show of baseball may be an all-Ohio proposition.

The Cleveland Indians, who hammered the Yankees back into third place yesterday, 10-5, are pacing the American league. The Cincinnati Reds, on the strength of the 6-2 battering they handed Carl Hubbell, are just a game and a half behind the National league-leading Giants and can jump that gap by taking the two remaining games of their series with Terry's Terriers.

It's not such a long shot, either. The Giants, struggling along minus lead-off man Joe Moore and with a revamped line-up, have dropped their last three starts. The Reds, on the other hand, are riding a streak in which they have lost only three out of 14 games and have zoomed out of the second division into second place.

They weren't fooling when they teed off on Hubbell, either. The southpaw screwballer, making his third unsuccessful attempt for his 200th big league victory, was belted for a pair of homers and three runs in the third, four hits and three more runs in the seventh.

Five of the Reds' seven safeties off the Hub went for extra bases, including a four-bagger and a triple by Ival Goodman.

Balancing Artillery
Meanwhile Big Jim Weaver was balancing the heavy artillery with some fancy four-hit pitching. When he threatened to lose control of the situation, Bucky Walters took charge and didn't allow a hit the rest of the way.

But the Reds' harsh treatment of Hubbell and the Indians' 14-hit assault on Yankee Red Ruffing wasn't all of the day's fireworks. In Detroit, Frank (Pinky) Higgins wrote a new chapter into baseball's book of big league records and at the same time erased a famous name. The Red Sox third baseman, with four hits in each half of a doubleheader with the Tigers, ran his streak of successive safeties to twelve, bettering by one the previous mark set in 1920 by Tris Speaker.

Tiger Rudy York hit a homer in each game to tie Boston's Jimmy Foss for the lead at 19 each, and the Sox, winning the first by 8-3 and losing the nightcap, 5-4, edged into second place again, four points ahead of the Yankees.

It was a big afternoon, too, for Harry Kelley. The veteran Washington right-hander won his first game of the season and made it a good job as he shutout the White Sox, 7-0, on five hits. In the other American League game Earl Hildebrand also pitched five-hit ball and the Browns whipped the Athletics, 5-2.

In the National league, the Cubs took advantage of effective relief pitching by veteran Charley Root to shade the Phillies, 4-3; Jim Turner set down the Cardinals with five hits to give the Bees a 3-1 decision, and the Dodgers, playing their second night game at home, were left still needing their first victory under the Ebbets field arcs as they bowed to the Pirates, 9 to 3.

By G. E. PHILLIPS

State Hospital Correspondent

The second game of the six game series for the championship of the Dixon State Hospital was won last evening by the All-Stars when they defeated the Clansome Wildcats 10 to 5 before a large crowd.

Dr. B. B. Neuchiller twirled for the winners and exhibited an assortment of slants that held the Wildcats well in check besides making a timely two-base hit that contributed to the final score. For the losers the playing of Bert Engel in right field was impressive. Three sensational shoe string catches, three hits and not an error were his contributed to the score:

HANNIBAL, Carthaginian general, attempted to accomplish with elephants the tasks performed in modern warfare by armored tanks. Men, armed with spears and shields, bows and arrows, rode troops of elephants into the enemy ranks. The animals, panicky with fright, were hard to control, and the experiment was decidedly unsuccessful.

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far:
Aster Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has enraged Quannomet. She was killed by a left handed blow from the knife of her sister, Pam Frye. Interested parties are: Tim Carr, once married to Marina; Roddy Strutt, whose airplane crash was deliberate; Peggy Boone, an artist; Jennings, an artist; and persons unknown who burned down the Frye's barn, killed Asey, Tim and Pam's father, destroyed Jack Lorne's mural, sketches and defaced the mural itself. Missing is a $50,000 lump of ambergris belonging to Pam, which several people saw on the beach from Roddy's plane. Then Roddy disappears.

Chapter 41
The Big, Bad Biffer
"All I got to say," Asey twirled the Colt, "is that you better find him and bring him back in just fifteen minutes. Brother Strutt, or you'll be strutting into a jail. Do I make myself clear?"
Roddy's father was almost in tears. "But I tell you—"
"Neither Elliott nor me," Asey said, "was born yesterday. You find Roddy, an' find him quick, or the house of Strutt'll be cold turkey."
"He's gone," Carveth sobbed. "He was here before you came, an' now he's gone. That man's got him!"

"If this is an act," Asey said, "it's one of the best I ever seen outside a theater. Elliott will explain to him that I want Roddy without any more tears or squeaks?"

"But it's that man Jennings!" Carveth said. "It's that man Jennings!"

"Oh, it is? You mean Earl Jennings, the plumber?"
"Yes," Carveth said. "Yes. It— it was most unfortunate. I'm sure we did everything in our power to make things right, and then this mural—"

"What's this?" Asey asked.
"Jennings' daughter," Elliott explained while Carveth blew his nose.

"And now," Carveth said, "he's done what he threatened — he's kidnapped Roddy—and why don't you two do something about it?"

"Earl Jennings," Asey said, "is over in the Pochet hospital. I seen him there myself."

"Most unfortunate his being hurt in that plane crash," Carveth said. "Most unfortunate as I told Roddy, why couldn't he have picked someone else. But of course that would have been satisfactorily adjusted by the family, just as the other unfortunate incident was adjusted. I told Jennings that myself, last night."

"He was in the hospital last night," Asey said.
"Oh, no, he was not!" Carveth retorted with a show of spirit. "He was there, here, threatening us! After I saw you at Octagon House. And threatening Roddy, too. He seemed to think that he had been put into that mural because Roddy told Mar—I mean, told Lorne to put him in. And that accident—"

"You mean to say that Jennings, Earl Jennings the plumber — he was here last night?" Asey's eyes lighted up.

"He was," Carveth said.
Asey smiled and remembered the conversation he had had with the nurse about Jennings. If he had had the slightest bit of intelligence, he should have guessed. What was it she'd said? Something about "So Asey had heard what went on about Jennings—"

On the Loose
"It seems to me," Elliott said, "that I did hear something about Jennings on the loose last night. He goes off on busts, you know. They're the talk of Quannomet. They used to be the talk even of Company B in the old days."

"Listen to me," Asey said to Carveth. "I'm comin' back here in an hour, an' you produce Roddy for me. Elliott's goin' to stay here with you an' see that you do, ain't you, Elliott? Right. You see he finds Roddy. If you have to fight another Chateau Thierry. Here," he handed over the forty-five.

"You take this, an' find Roddy. I'm goin' over to the Pochet hospital an' see Jennings. I happen to know that he'll be there."

The nurses crowded around him by the desk.
"Asey," Susan said, "you certainly did the trick! We haven't had a peek out of Jennings since you were here. He went to sleep like a little lamb—"

"I want to see him," Asey said. "Quick—tell me if he got out last night."

"Yesterday afternoon, shortly after you were here. They say he was on a tear, but he really hadn't had much to drink. His wife and the doctor made him come back this morning—they simply couldn't quiet him down. It's that mural and the pipes that have got on his nerves—"

she opened the door carefully. "I think he's asleep—"

she looked on the light. "Oh, Mr. Jennings—"

She and Asey stared at the empty room.

Asey brushed past Susan into the hall, and raced back to the desk.

"Bease me," he said, and grabbed the telephone. "Hello, this is Asey Mayo. I want to talk with Hanson of the state police—that's right. Asey Mayo exchange where he be?"

Susan whispered breathlessly to the other nurse.

"Hello, Hanson? Oh, Lane. Listen. Take some men, go over to the Strutt place by the beach. Hunt for a fellow named Earl Jennings, and for the young Strutt boy. There's a Congressman there named Elliott. He'll explain everything to you. You want Earl Jennings, an' Roddy Strutt. Got that?"

He listened a moment.
"That's it, Lane. What do you do when you get them? You sit on them both. Oh, an' phone to the barracks—get Jennings and the numbers from someone. Have the roads watched for fun. That's right. I'll be over."

He put the phone down, stared reflectively at a chart on the desk and then picked up the receiver again.

"I want Octagon House, over in Quannomet," he said.

He whistled under his breath as he waited.

"Octagon House—that you, Tim? Tim, have you got troopers there? Well, leave one at the house, take the other an' go over to Jack Lorne's—he's still there? Okay. Take a trooper an' go over an' stay. The biffer's loose again, an' he might come for Lorne. That's right. No chases, this time, Tim. Tell those fellows to get him."

"What—" Susan began.
"I ain't got time to tell you," Asey said. "Oh, why didn't we tie that fellow up!"

Sus-spup-panked!
He hurried out to Tim's car and swung it back toward Quannomet. At the cross roads he hesitated the fraction of a second. It would be a little longer to go past the Octagon House but, on the other hand, it might be wise to drop in there on his way back to the Strutt's.

Tim howled at him as he turned up the Lorne's drive.

"Asey! Come here — my God, come here—"

"What's happened?" Asey didn't ever bother to turn off the engine.

"Lorne—"

"Lorne, what? What?"

"Come and see." Tim held open the door. "In the studio."

Lorne lay face down on the couch, his shoulders shaking convulsively.

"What's the matter?" Asey demanded.

Lorne lifted up a tear-stained face, looked at Asey, and then dove back into the pillow.

"He's been spanked," Tim explained cheerfully.

"What?"

"Believe it or not, he's been spanked. It took me ten minutes to get the information out of him. I thought he was having convulsions when we first came in."

"Who spanked him?"

"That," Tim said, "is something I don't know. I haven't got that far yet. He's terribly reticent. You'd think he'd had his tongue spanked."

Asey walked over and shook Lorne by the shoulder.

"Come to! What happened, an' who done it?"

Lorne sobbed bitterly.

"See here," Asey said, "you told me that artists had to suffer. This ain't no way to take a spanking. You'd ought to consider it a thrillin' experience that'll prob'ly make you another Mike Angelo."

"He—he sus-spup-panked me!"

"Sooner or later," Tim said, "spankings come to all men. Brace up. We want to know who the hero was."

"Earl Jennings!"

Asey sat down. "How long ago," he asked, "did this happen? Come on, come to, Lorne! When did he do it?"

"I don't know. A long time. Two hours. Maybe less. I don't know. But," Lorne sat up. "I know one thing. If I ever see the man again, I'll kill him. I'll tear him apart with my bare hands!"

The idea of the slender Jack Lorne tearing Jennings apart was somehow irresistibly funny to Asey. It appealed also to Timothy.

"Does he mean he'll do that to the biffer?" the latter wanted to know. "He does? Oh, no, Jack! No. I've had some brief experience with your spanker, and I'll tell you for your own good, just yet: let him have his way, and forgive him freely."
